PICTURES

OF THE LATE

RIGHT HONOURABLE

SIR JULIAN GOLDSMID,

BART., P.C., M.P.

N.B.—Illustrated Catalogues, Price Five Shillings.

13.6.1896

The Piccadilly mansion of the late Sir Julian Goldsmid, M.P., with its extensive art collections, will be offered for sale in the course of next month, "The Builder" says. The house was built 1850-1 for the then Marquess of Hertford, the materials being used of its predecessor on that site —the old Pulteney Hotel, which had been erected for the Earl of Barrymore, who died before its completion. The original façade was designed, it seems, by Novosielski; the rebuilding from the ground floor, and the porch, were done by Sir Robert Smirke. The Emperor of Russia stayed at the Pulteney Hotel during the visit to England in 1814 of the allied Sovereigns. The site had been that of Carter's statuary works, which stood next, west of the workshops of John Van Nost, maker of leaden figures, who came to England with William III., described in Aldwin's "New Complete Guide for '54-5" as being "near to the Queen's Mead House in Hyde Park-road."

TRAVELS OF A TURNER.

Turner's "Rockets and Blue-lights," which Messrs. Duveen bought for £25,800 at the Yerkes sale in New York, has been often on its travels since it left the easel some seventy years ago.

From the Naylor collection at Horton Hall, in Cheshire, it passed to Mr. Connell, the ironmaster, whose pictures were sold at Christie's in 1886.

The Agnews then acquired it for £745, selling it to Sir Julian Goldsmid, and buying it back ten years later for £3,885. Altogether it has been six times in the hands of Messrs. Agnew. Mr. Orrock also bought and sold it six times, and it was from him that Mr. Yerkes made his purchase.

80 A YOUTHFUL KNIGHT OF THE ORDER OF SANTIAGO OF SPAIN. Full-length life-sized figure of a boy standing on a bare pavement, in front of a chair on which is hung a grey felt hat adorned with a white and red feather; he wears a long white cloak, on the front of which is the red cross of Santiago, and Vandyck collar; his left hand grasps the hilt of his sword, the cloak on that side being raised and thrown over his arm, reveals an under-dress of crimson, with white leggings and shoes; deep crimson background.

A remarkable picture, painted in a very silvery tone and delicately modelled. Much commended by Dr. Passavant in his 'Kunstreise durch England,' page 175, but erroneously styled A Youthful Knight of St. John.

It was the form of cross which Philip IV. bestowed upon Velasquez by means of a red paint-brush applied to the artist's own portrait, according to the well-known anecdote (see Stirling's 'Spanish Papers,' vol. ii. pp. 651 and 657). This same cross also appears on a portrait of Ribalta belonging to Sir Wm. Eden, Bart., which was No. 230 of the Manchester Exhibition in 1857. It was again conspicuous on a portrait attributed to Van Dyck, dated 1630, in the collection at Warwick Castle.

Dear Mr. Roberts,

Am sending you two photographs of the Turner picture and on one are the particulars.

Agnew sold the picture to Pandeli Ralli, and it now comes directly from that collection. If you can let me have it back before leaving, will appreciate it.

Hope you enjoy yourself in Paris Whitsun, but don't be too gay.

Best wishes,

Sincerely,

Francis Taylor

The Piccadilly mansion of the late Sir Julian Goldsmid, M.P., with its extensive art collections, will be offered for sale in the course of next month, "The Builder" says. The house was built 1850-1 for the then Marquess of Hertford, the materials being used of its predecessor on that site—the old Pulteney Hotel, which had been erected for the Earl of Barrymore, who died before its completion. The original façade was designed, it seems, by Novosielski; the rebuilding from the ground floor, and the porch, were done by Sir Robert Smirke. The Emperor of Russia stayed at the Pulteney Hotel during the visit to England in 1814 of the allied Sovereigns. The site had been that of Carter's statuary works, which stood next, west of the workshops of John Van Nost, maker of leaden figures, who came to England with William III., described in Baldwin's "New Complete Guide for 1754-5" as being "near to the Queen's Mead House in Hyde Park-road."

The Collection of Pictures of the late Right Hon. Sir Julian Goldsmid, Bart., M.P.

MESSRS. CHRISTIE, MANSON, and WOODS respectfully give notice that they will SELL by AUCTION, at their great Rooms, King-street, St. James's-square, on Saturday, June 13, at 1 o'clock precisely, by order of the Executors.

Gainsborough, R.A., viz.: Mr. and Mrs. Dehany and their daughter, Dorothea, Lady Eden, and a grand view at Shockerwick, with figures and cows; five important works of G. Romney: Lady Hamilton as Contemplation, Lady Urith Shore, Miss Harriet Shore, Mrs. Oliver, and James Oliver; a Lady, by J. Hoppner, R.A.; the Duchess of York, by Sir W. Beechey, R.A.; the celebrated Blue Lights and a Sea Piece, by J. M. W. Turner, R.A.; The Embarkation of George IV. from Whitehall, by J. Constable, R.A.; Listening, by Lord Leighton, P.R.A.; The Little Speedwell's Darling Blue, by Sir J. E. Millais, P.R.A.; A Guarda Costa, by C. Stanfield, R.A.; Expectations, by L. Creswick, R.A., Sir J. Gilbert, R.A., W. Hilton, R.A., Sir E. Landseer, R.A., E. Long, R.A., J. Phillip, R.A., D. Roberts, R.A.; also fine works of Colin Hunter, A.R.A., B. W. Leader, A.R.A., E. Nicol, A.R.A., John Linnell, Patrick Nasmyth, J. Stark, D. Cox, J. Collier, K. Halswelle, and a few fine drawings by Birket Foster, Carl Haag, L. Haghe, and others; also 12 capital works by celebrated old masters. The Guitar Lesson, by Jan Steen; an Interior, by Adrian Ostade; Portrait of the Princess Elizabeth, by Sir A. More; a Knight of Santiago, by F. Pourbus; William, Prince of Orange, by Mierveldt; the Old Pretender, by Largilliere, &c. All of these works are of the highest quality, and have been collected from the celebrated collections of S. Addington, Blenheim Palace, J. Carwardine, Lord Cheylesmore, Sir A. Fountaine, R. Foster, J. Gibbons, Lord Londesborough, H. McConnell, Duchess of Montrose, S. Mendel, James Price, J. M. Threlfall. Many of them are well known from having been exhibited at the Royal Academy and at the Winter Loan Exhibitions at Burlington House.

May be viewed three days preceding and catalogues had. Illustrated catalogues, price 5s., may be had.

Among the pictures a first place is claimed by two well-known Sir Joshuas and by the beautiful portrait (head and bust) of Dorothea, Lady Eden, by Gainsborough. The latter has not the force, the "go," of the Lady Mulgrave of last year, but it is full of the master's finest qualities of grace, refinement, and charm. The large group of the Dehaney family is an earlier work of the same painter; the quality of the lady's dress is magnificent, but other parts of the picture are darkened. Sir Joshua's "Miss Monckton" was here two years ago, it is as well-known as any of his full-lengths. Another good picture is the "Mrs. Nathan," from the Duchess of Montrose's sale, and there are two first-rate Romneys, the "Lady Hamilton as Contemplation," from the Carwardine collection, and the "Mrs. Oliver," painted in the artist's most forcible manner. A small "Rough Sea," by Turner, recalling the famous National Gallery picture, and a large study for Constable's "Opening of Waterloo-bridge" are among the most noteworthy of the remaining English pictures. There are, besides, some of the portraits which are just now in such high favour, but they are mostly well-remembered works from quite recent sales, Sir Julian having been a buyer up to the very beginning of his last illness.
